

Transcript for Retrospect Video 2

Steven J. Corbett

Male: Like the [inaudible] you do not come unto the debate prepared. First of all, I'm going to go off what you said, the last three sentences of the introduction, that it was about – something about tablet meaning porn, that this study focuses on students' perspective on tablet acceptance in general, blah, blah, blah. Final source. None of it is relevant. That's my point.

Second of all, Anthony doesn't explain dead zones in the introduction. That's what you said. If you read anything on maybe favorite three like how to write it you would know that this paper is not about dead zones. This paper is about the rhetoric used in analyzing articles and journals and literature on dead zones. So first of all, he didn't explain it in the introduction, but he didn't have to because that's not what it's about. But he did give background information which John Snow did not. So I know nothing about tablet acceptance. I don't know why that's important, once again.

Next, Dan, you have your iPad. Do your kids teach you how to use it and are they annoyed? [Laughter] Sasha, you said that the likert scale is him explaining something about tablet acceptance, but where is that? That is in his logos section is the first time he mentions the lightening scale, which is already past the structure section, which means he's already lost me. Next, Anahita, specific strategies. Juan has background information. I enjoyed that background information. In fact this weekend I flew to Alaska and I suddenly cared about the environment [laughter] [inaudible]. I've saved a baby seal down [laughter] [inaudible]. Bluff. True story.

Next, Pat, you know nothing because John Snow did not win the war. He won the battle. [Laughter] You would know the difference. Second of all, he did not win the war. Someone who – I will not spoil it for my partner – did and it was not John Snow. Let me tell you that if you watch the finale. Second of all, that Asian thing that's racist. [Laughter] We're allowed to make those jokes. Okay? And she said my eyes are too small and I can't see something. First of all, do you know why everything is in wide screen now? Because Asians rule the world. I did not say there's not enough analysis to that block quote or I did not say there's no analysis. I said there's not enough. For the size of that block quote as it was if you learn anything in this class Professor did state that if you have a huge quote which, yes, it's only four sentences, but four sentences in middle school is a paragraph – if you have a huge quote you have to go just as long and even more than that to explain it which he did not.

Amy, I don't remember what all I was going to say to you. It had something to do with the block quote. But look me in the eye. That's it.

[End of Audio]