

Transcript for “Good Morning Toxins” by Steve McNally

Student example included in PraxisWiki webtext “Hey, @students! #Letschat: Using Social Media to Facilitate Research and Public Engagement” by Jessie Miller, Shanna Gilkeson, and Lisa Pignotti.

The audio track is Beethoven’s 5th Symphony. The text below appears on screen.

Good Morning Toxins!!!!!!!!!!

Fluoride is a by-product of fertilizer, proven to cause cancer in tests on rats.

Coffee planters use deadly pesticides. Coffee beans [are the] highest source of toxins in [the] US diet.

Don’t worry consumers. Lobbyists say it’s safe.